SENIORS

the sun suddenly rises in June reflecting on our backs the signs of people
so different two years ago.
the signs of shedded childhood are watched and saved in dusty streamer boxes left from whimsical projects.
forgotten one-act props a tinseled hall decoration ticket stubs and more stubs from dances plays tests and games are all left behind in corners of our minds now bent on other things.
no doubt we'll forget seemingly agonizing papers and tests weekend escapades each year more daring than the last and rules we so often cried unfair . . . as long as we remember the smiling faces
and friendships solidified as we grew together there will always be a class of '73
